As we near the end of Acts, we hit the rapids.

Guiding Principle #1 for Engaging Culture: _____
Your _____, thinking it will encourage others to listen to you, seldom is a good strategy.

1. What happened back in Acts 15 that we should remember here?

2. While Paul did his part to uphold the agreements of the Jerusalem Council, what about the leaders in Jerusalem?

3. So to head off trouble, what do they suggest Paul do? And does it work?

4. What do we need to remember about the Gospel, if it's preached rightly, and heard rightly?

Guiding Principle #2: When engaging culture, use your _____, including the power of _____ if it is available (but do so very _____.)

1. What happens next in the story?

2. The fact that what triggers the Jews is the thought of the Gentiles coming to faith proves that both Judaism and Jerusalem are what?

3. When the tribune decides to beat the truth out of Paul, how does Paul use his power, and employee politics with him?

4. What are some ways we can "use our power" to engage culture?

5. What are some of the principles Justin Gibboney has been teaching us about using politics to engage culture?
