Pastor Bear Clifton

Before he died, David left us his psalms. Besides being an aid to prayer and a guide for worship, what else are the psalms for us?

Jesus came right out and said that the psalms pointed to him. And the apostles heralded David as a prophet. Scriptures that say this:

Messianic Prophecies In The Psalms

The Messiah would be from the _____.

God calls him his _____.

He would be worshiped by _____.

He would be rejected by the _____.

He would be rejected by _____.

He would be _____ by a friend.

He would die by _____.

They would _____.

He would be _____ as he died.

He would _____ and be given a _____.

In his dying none of his _____ would be _____.

He would feel _____ by God as he died.

He would _____.

He would _____.

The Messiah would be _____.

The Messiah's rule would extend over _____.

Before There Was Isaiah 53 Was Psalm 22

1. How do we know that this psalm was Messianic?

2. How did David come to write this psalm?

3. What astonishing features are found in this psalm?

What Lessons Should We Draw From Studying Prophecy?

My own list of lessons:

Biblical Lessons:

1. Prophecy is an _____.

2. Prophecy is an _____

in times when God seems distant.

3. Seeing these prophecies as Messianic helps us to understand the “imprecatory” psalms. Say what?!

4. These prophecies confirm the incalculable _____ that we have been given in the psalms.
